PRELIMINARY RESULTS OF SALE 2418, JUNE 9, 2016:
AMERICAN ART

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Todd Weyman, Swann Galleries' Vice President and Director of Prints & Drawings said, "We are enjoying seeing the market for this annual sale grow, with almost 20% of the sold lots exceeding their high estimates, and competitive bidding for top lots including works by Sanford Robinson Gifford, Steve Wheeler, Miguel Covarrubias and other artists from a wide range of schools and genres."

The sale was headlined by an intense bidding battle over the phone for the previously unrecorded Gifford painting, Study of the Parthenon, 1869. The study – which relates to a painting of the same subject, Ruins of the Parthenon, held in the collection of the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. – sold for $269,000.

Works by Brooklyn native Guy C. Wiggins performed well, as did works by fellow New Yorker Paul Cadmus, which saw fierce live online bidding. Miguel Covarrubias' At Leroy's, which went on to be illustrated in his book Negro Drawings, shows the artist's take on the Harlem Renaissance, harkening back to a period of intense creativity in the city. At Leroy's sold for $60,000.

Abstract works were also popular among collectors in this sale, with Robert Barrell's first piece to come to auction, the oil painting Cat and Bird, soaring over its pre-sale estimate to $23,750. Fellow Indian Space Painter Steve Wheeler's bright The Halogens II also eclipsed its high estimate at $65,000.

Records were set by Elsie Driggs's Figures Fighting (The Mob), which came in at $11,250, more than five times the previous auction record for the artist, and Gabor Peterdi's Pacific IJ-VII-89, oil on canvas, 1989, which set a new record for the artist at auction at $8,450.
